5. Additional information

- ◆ The first set of cards sent from Taiwan had a drawing on one side and a message with the sender and receiver's name. The drawings showed well-known places and things in Taiwan, along with the Taiwanese students' items of interest, showcasing each student's individuality.
- ◆ The Shirokane Elementary School students also made picture postcards and included drawings and writing like the Xing-An Elementary students. The students used the English phrases they learned to each write something about Japan on one card.
- ◆ The Shirokane Elementary School students worked to create cards that the Xing-An Elementary School students could enjoy and easily understand.
